It's time to add a little spice to our Omega-3...

By Dr. Luc-Pierre Martin-Privat, Pharm. D, MBA

The interest in omegas came to the forefront when we started looking into the health of Inuits and Japanese. While the latter ate a diet richer in fat than did North Americans, their mortality rates due to cardiovascular disease were much lower. This observation led to fastidious scientific examination over the past decade, revealing the breadth of benefits afforded by the omegas and their involvement in a number of important processes: building and maintaining of the integrity of cell membranes as well as promoting proper functioning of the cardiovascular, nervous and immune systems.

In May 2007, Immunotec launched its first coldwater fish oil supplement under the name "Omega-3 with Turmeric." Its innovative formula, which contained a naturally powerful antioxidant source (turmeric), has ensured its increasing success throughout the years and has made it a flagship product in its line of daily essentials.

Today, Immunotec once again revolutionizes the world of natural health products with a completely new Omega-3 formula. Based on the successful formula of "Omega-3 with Turmeric," Immunotec's researchers have incorporated the latest discoveries in terms of capsule and formulation resulting in an incredible product with optimized properties. Introducing the new... Omega-3 + CoQ₁₀ with Turmeric
